WEEKLY Roundup

In the news this week...

• Sports day was a roaring success and it was lovely to be able to invite families to watch and enjoy all the races. See page 2.

- NEW AWARD - As you may know, earlier this term we heard of the very sad loss of Helen Freeman. Helen was a much loved and a valuable member of our school family who supported our school for 15 years as a parent and as a governor. As a governor, Helen contributed greatly to the continued success of our school especially during tricky times where she led work on PR and communications. To commemorate and celebrate her contribution to school we are introducing a new Writing Award to be presented annually for creativity, craft and composition in writing. This will be presented for the first time in our end of year service in church on Friday 22nd July. As usual we will be walking down to church after morning registration - it would be lovely if you could all join us.
- At last the weather has begun to improve! Don't forget sun cream & sun hats!

FEEL GOOD FRIDAY

Discuss: In previous Feel Good Friday activities, we have talked about complimenting others and being supportive. Can you remember what a compliment is? How can we show support to our peers? Today is sports day, a great opportunity to practise what you have learnt!

Do: Cheer your friends on during sports day, praise their effort and support them when their race is over.

Reflect (after the event): Did anyone pay you a compliment? How were your friends supportive today? How did it make you feel?

Book Before & After School
Care for September here

Back in March, year 5 & 6 took part in a medical science day for British Science Week. After learning about medical professionals, the children entered a competition to say thank you to the NHS.

The competition, which runs every year, is designed to raise awareness of over 350 career opportunities in the NHS. The children were encouraged to showcase a range of job roles and challenge gender stereotypes in their entries.

This year's competition had 916 entries from more than 1,080 pupils throughout England. See page 4 for our entries.

10 children from our school received highly commended certificates for their outstanding efforts.

Then, 10 regional winners were selected from across England - The regional winner for Yorkshire was a member of this school!

The regional winners were then invited to present their entries over video call to a panel of judges. The judges for the primary school competition included the chief executive of NHS Health Education England, an NHS trainee clinical scientist and a medical student.

The judges then had a difficult task: to choose an overall winner, and...

Jessica was crowned the overall national winner!

Jessica will receive a 'national winner' certificate, her artwork framed, a £50 Amazon voucher and goody bag. Her class will also receive a science-related experience. WELL DONE JESSICA - we are very proud of you!
